CARSON CITY:

Wednesday, April 23, 1973.

V. & T. R. R. Irems .- We learn from Mr. Ardery that Frank Bell is engaged in building a line of railway telegraph from the Mound House direct to Virginia City. When this stretch of wire is in working order the V. & T. people will have an independent line of their own over all that part of their line between Carson and Virginia. Mr. G. W. White, master carpenter, or boss joiner for the company has some twenty-five men at work preparing the timbers for the roof work preparing the timbers for the roof of the new car and machine shops and he tells us that a new depot 20 by 40 feet, on a platform 40 by 60 feet, has been built at the Empire station. This new structure, like all the company's reconstructed station buildings has an overhanging roof, a passengers waiting room, a telegraph office, &c. We notice some repairing of the track where it crosses Carson street at the Mint corner, also a new line of fence aloneside the of the new car and machine shops and he tells us that a new depot 20 by 40 feet, on a platform 40 by 60 feet, has been built at the Empire station. This new structure, like all the company's reconstructed station buildings has an overhanging toof, a passengers' waiting room, a telegraph office, &c. We notice some repairing of the track where it crosses Carson streetat the Mint corner, also a new line of fence alongside the track down south of Mr. Biethen's place. Up on the scaffolding which surrounds the waits of the new car shops one gets an idea of the grand dimen. one gets an idea of the grand dimensions of the larger apartments of the same. The room designed for the machine shop is 143 by 69 feet, in the clear, and the room intended for the car shop will be 163 by 6) feet. Looking down into these rooms they seem colosed. The machine shop, blacksmith shop, pattern shop, offices and round house are almost quite ready for the roof. It is estimated that these various shops with the engine rooms and foundries w.
